About the workshops - My workshops are very informal and relaxed. The common goal is to learn more about art and enhance our own creative efforts. That means you don't even have to be a wildlife artist to participate. We have still-life painters; landscape artists; even carvers and they all work in a variety of mediums including watercolor, acrylic, pastels, colored pencil, oil and more. Joining a group of artists for a workshop of painting and sharing is truly worthwhile. This creative camaraderie is both inspiring and fulfilling. If you have any questions about my workshops, or would like to be put on my workshop mailing list, please contact me.

Currently I offer one workshop annually, which is always the end of August. The location is in the northern part of Michigan's Lower Peninsula. I also do workshops for other art groups and organizations. If you know of such a group that might be interested, have them contact me for information. The workshop begins with Friday evening registration (no meal) or Sunday afternoon if you are only doing the second session. The workshop ends approximately at 1:00 pm on the last day.

NEW: There is a Spring Workshop sponsored by Up North Arts, Inc. It will be Wednesday, April 26 & Thursday, April 27, 2017. Details for registration & payment will be on their Facebook page (<https://www.facebook.com/upnorthartsinc/>) beginning March 1, 2017. It will be held at the Cadillac Elks Lodge in Cadillac, Michigan. More details are on my website.

If you would like to see more information, including photographs from past workshops, check the "Workshop" section on my website. Complete information, including downloadable registration forms and this newsletter are available.
