About the workshops - My workshops are very informal and relaxed. The common goal is to learn more about art and enhance our own creative efforts. That means you don't even have to be a wildlife artist to participate. We have still-life painters; landscape artists; even carvers and they all work in a variety of mediums including watercolor, acrylic, pastels, colored pencil, oil and more. Joining a group of artists for a workshop of painting and sharing is truly worthwhile. This creative camaraderie is both inspiring and fulfilling. If you have any questions about my workshops, or would like to be put on my workshop mailing list, please contact me.

Currently I offer one workshop annually, which is always the end of August. The location is in the northern part of Michigan's Lower Peninsula. I also do workshops for other art groups and organizations. If you know of such a group that might be interested, have them contact me for information. The workshop begins with Friday evening registration (no meal) or Sunday afternoon if you are only doing the second session. The workshop ends approximately at 1:00 pm on the last day.

- I am teaching an afternoon drawing class at the Card Wildlife Center in Mt. Pleasant on Feb. 16, 2019 at 1:00 pm. Contact the Card Center through their website at <https://www.ferris.edu/HTMLS/news/card/hours/index.htm> or call (231) 591-5387.
- I will be one of the instructors for SKB Artist Rendezvous & Workshop, Dubois, WY at the Headwaters Arts & Conference Center. For more information go to this link: <http://www.skbworkshop.com/dubois-workshop-info-2/> September 15 - 20, 2019
- I will be doing a two-day workshop on October 12 - 13, 2019 for the Creative Arts Guild of Mid-Michigan in Alma, Michigan. For more information you can contact the guild at Creativeartsguildmidmichigan@gmail.com
